Business leaders presented Jason Ammons Free Enterprise Award

The Wall School of Business Administration and Computer Science has awarded four business leaders with the Jason Ammons Free Enterprise Award.

Since 1990, the Wall School of Business has given the award to eight select individuals whose career achievements exemplify the limitless opportunities within the American free enterprise system. The award is named in memory of Jason Ammons, a Myrtle Beach businessman. Scholarships totalling $2,000 also are awarded through the Jason Ammons Free Enterprise Project.

The 1993 recipients are: Hugh McMaster Chapman, chairman of NationsBank South of Atlanta; James L.S. Collins, president and chief operating officer of Chick-fil-A, Inc., of Atlanta; James F. Kane, dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of South Carolina in Columbia; and Gary Schaal, president of the Professional Golf Association (PGA).

Hugh Chapman is chairman of NationsBank South, NationsBank of Georgia, NationsBank of Florida, and NationsBank of Tennessee, a position he has held since Jan. 1, 1992. Chapman joined The Citizens and Southern National Bank of South Carolina in 1958; as the bank grew, Chapman was quickly promoted from assistant vice president, to president and chairman and chief executive officer. The Citizens and Southern National Bank became NationsBank in 1992. Born in Spartanburg, South Carolina, Chapman is a 1955 graduate of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, with a bachelor's degree in business administration, and a 1966 graduate of Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University.

James Collins is president and chief operating officer of Chick-fil-A, Inc. In the mid-1960s, Collins was operating a food service consulting business when he was

Philip Lader, Gurdon Tarbox, Frederick Hart to be honored during commencement ceremony

Coastal will graduate approximately 357 students during commencement exercises Saturday, May 8 at 10 a.m. at the soccer stadium. In addition, students who received diplomas in August and December 1992, as well as students who will qualify for August 1993 graduation, will participate in the ceremony. The public is welcome.

Businessman Philip Lader will deliver the commencement address and will receive the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters.

Lader graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Duke University in 1966, earned a master's degree in history from the University of Michigan in 1967, and completed graduate studies in jurisprudence at Oxford University in 1968. He graduated from Harvard law school in 1972.

Lader was president of Sea Pines Company on Hilton Head Island and later, was president and professor of business and public policy at Winthrop University. In 1986, he was a candidate for governor of South Carolina. Lader returned to business as president of GOSL Land Assets Management and executive director of GOSL Acquisition Corporation. During the Persian Gulf war, Lader served as president of Business Executives for National Security, a non-partisan association of national business leaders seeking to ensure a strong, affordable national defense and to bring more business-like management to the Pentagon budget.

Lader served as president of Bond University in Australia. During his tenure, the university began to operate with no debt; its enrollment grew by 33 percent and included students from 30 nations; and its first Rhodes Scholar was named. In 1993, Lader was appointed by President Clinton as deputy director for management of the Office of Management and Budget.

Lader has been active in South Carolina and national civic affairs, business and educational endeavors. He is founder of the annual Renaissance Weekends on Hilton Head Island.

Gurdon Tarbox Jr., president of Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, will receive the honorary degree of doctor of public service.

Tarbox served in the U.S. Army in Japan, Korea, and China from 1946 to 1948. Following his military service, he earned a bachelor's degree from Michigan called upon by Truett Cathy to design two Dwarf House Restaurants, the fore-runners of Chick-fil-A. Cathy again called upon Collins in 1967 to design a small restaurant in a regional shopping mall to serve his locally popular Chick-fil-A sandwich. One year later, Collins joined Chick-fil-A as vice president.

James Kane has served as dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of South Carolina in Columbia since 1967. He directs the graduate and undergraduate programs in economics and business administration. The college has approximately 150 full-time faculty members and 4,100 students. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1958 and a master's degree in economics in 1959, both from Indiana State University. In 1964, Kane earned a Ph.D. in business administration from Washington University.

Gary Schaal was elected the 28th president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America in November 1992. Schaal got his start in golf as an assistant professional at Myrtle Beach National in 1969, and in 1973 he moved to Pine Lakes International Country Club as the head golf professional. In 1980, he became a principal in Deer Track Golf Resort, a 36-hole complex in Surfside Beach. He is the owner/operator of three golf facilities in South Carolina. Schaal earned a bachelor's degree in 1963 from Ohio Wesleyan University and a master's degree in 1970 from East Carolina University.

The award is presented during the annual Business Forum, a series of programs dealing with topics of interest to the business community, students and faculty. Speakers invited to the forum have traditionally represented some of the world's largest and most successful enterprises. "Business Forum 1993: Excellence in Uncertain Times" was held in March and attracted more than 750 business leaders and Coastal students, faculty, and administrators. ~

Student elected to honorary society

Jennifer Flynn of Upper Marlboro, Maryland, has been elected to the Alpha Delta Sigma Honorary Society on behalf of the American Advertising Federation. Flynn is a senior majoring in marketing.

Coastal faculty advisers nominated Flynn for the honor. When inducted into the national honorary society, Flynn will receive a certificate for her superior scholastic achievement in advertising. ~

State University in 1952 and a master's degree from Purdue University in 1954.

Selected by Brookgreen Gardens' founder Archer Milton Huntington, Tarbox began working at the Murrells Inlet site in summer 1954. During his tenure, the facility evolved from a personal venture of the founders, to a major, regional museum with an outdoor sculpture collection considered among the finest in the world. During this early period, the flora collection was expanded to include indigenous species and those adaptable for exhibition in the South Carolina coastal climate; the wildlife park was rebuilt on a new 50-acre site; a new road system was designed and completed; new buildings for visitor services were built; and an education program was developed and the Education-Nature center was constructed; major additions were made to the gardens; and an administration building was constructed. Today, Brookgreen Gardens has the world's largest collection of figurative sculpture, and is recognized throughout the Southeast for its educational and cultural arts programming.

In addition, artist Frederick Hart will receive the honorary degree of doctor of fine arts.

Hart was educated in the public schools of Atlanta, Ga., and Conway, S.C. He studied art at the University of South Carolina and American University. In 1966, Hart changed his artistic direction from painting to sculpture and began working as an ornamentalist for traditional Italian sculptor George Gianette, learning to decorate buildings with ornamental plaster. He also worked as an assistant to renowned sculptor Felix de Weldon, creator of the Iwo Jima Memorial in Washington, D.C.

To complete his self-imposed training, Hart apprenticed as a stone carver and sculptor at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. from 1968 to 1971. In 1974, Hart was awarded a large commission, on the basis of an international design competition, to do the entire west facade sculpture at the main entrance of the National Cathedral. It took approximately 10 years to complete the work.

Hart's artistic contributions to the nation continued when he created the processional cross used for Pope John Paul's historic mass on the Mall in 1979. Two years later, he was principal of the winning design team for the Carter Presidential Library in Atlanta, and in 1982, he was commissioned to create the famous sculpture, "The Three Soldiers," for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. In 1986, Hart was named to the Board of Trustees of Brookgreen Gardens. Hart is the 1988 recipient of the quadrennial Presidential Design Excellence Award.

In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in Kimbel Gymnasium; a closed circuit broadcast also will be shown in Wheelwright Auditorium. Rain tickets for admittance to Kimbel Gymnasium will be issued to degree candidates prior to rehearsal Friday, May 7. ~

History professor elected research fellowship

Roy Talbert Jr. has been elected a research fellow at the Institute for Southern Studies at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. He will be in residence at the institute this summer continuing research for a biography of Revolutionary War hero, Peter Horry.

Talbert is chair of the Department of History at Coastal. He is the author of FDR's Utopian: Arthur Morgan of the TVA, and Negative Intelligence: The Army and the American Left, 1917-1941, an examination of military intelligence and the American left. Talbert came to Coastal in 1979 when he accepted the position of vice chancellor for academic affairs. In 1984, he retired from administration, returned to the classroom and resumed his writing. He is completing Carolina Lawyers: The Wilcox Firm and Its Times and with David Millard, is editing the journal of Peter Horry. Talbert expects both of these books to be published in early 1994.

He earned a master's degree in 1967 and a Ph.D. in 1971, both in history from Vanderbilt University, and a bachelor's degree in history from Furman University in 1965. ~

Annual Honors Convocation held to honor award recipients

Coastal Carolina College honored top academic students and faculty members during the annual Honors Convocation held Tuesday, April 27.

The Academic Excellence Award recognizes outstanding academic achievement by a senior student. Selected by a faculty committee with representatives from each school of the college, candidates for this award must have attained a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.5, the endorsement of a faculty adviser, and a record of academic honors throughout their enrollment at Coastal.

The 1992-1993 Academic Excellence Award recipient is Kerry Schwanz, a psychology major from Myrtle Beach. Schwanz has maintained a 4.0 cumulative grade point average since she transferred to Coastal from the College of Charleston in fall 1988. She is a member and past president of Psi Chi, the national honor society for psychology; was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities; presented research that earned first runner-up honors at the 1993 spring meeting of the South Carolina Psychological Association; and was one of 10 students from around the country who will participate in the University of South Carolina's 1993 Summer Research Institute in Experimental Psychology. Schwanz will enter the Ph.D. program in school psychology at the University of Georgia in fall 1993.

The Ronald D. Lackey Service Award, named in honor of a faculty member and college chaplain, is given to a senior on the basis of conspicuous service to the college through involvement and leadership in campus organizations.

S. Mark Sikes, a political science major from Camden, S.C., was presented the award by Robert Squatriglia, vice chancellor for Student Affairs. Sikes has been a member and officer in the pre-law fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta; held numerous offices in the Student Government Association, including South Carolina Student Legislature delegate; was vice president of the philosophy honor society, Phi Sigma Tau; and was a founding officer for Kappa Tau Omega. Sikes is founding president of the national chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity and is coordinator of the Campus Programming Board.

The Coastal Educational Foundation Distinguished Teaching Award

recognizes faculty who have demonstrated excellence in teaching. A student committee solicits nominations from students. Top candidates then receive classroom visitations and are interviewed by the committee. Seventy-four professors were nominated for the 1992-1993 award.

The Distinguished Teaching Award was presented to Eldred E. "Wink" Prince Jr. An instructor in the Department of History, Prince joined the Coastal faculty in 1987. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1972 and a master's degree in 1988, both from the University of South Carolina. He recently completed a Ph.D. in history from the University of South Carolina. Prince was a finalist for the Distinguished Teaching Award in 1990-1991. Prince lives in Loris.

The Student Affairs Division Award honors faculty who have made significant contributions to the quality of student life through participation and leadership in the co-curricular activities of the college.

The recipient of the Student Affairs Division Award for 1992-1993 is Preston McKeever-Floyd. An instructor of philosophy and religion, McKeever-Floyd has been a member of the Coastal faculty since 1987. His campus activities include Spring Arts Festival, Curriculum Diversity Project, Faculty Senate, Baha'i Club, Amnesty International, and the African-American Student Organization, among others. He earned a master's of divinity degree from Duke University in 1979 and a bachelor's degree from Virginia State University in 1977. He lives in Conway.

Departmental awards were presented to 28 students in recognition of outstanding academic accomplishments and contributions to the academic quality of their respective departments. Candidates for academic awards are nominated by the department faculty.

Student assistants selected for summer orientation sessions

The following students have been selected to serve as assistants for the summer 1993 orientation sessions.

Paul Sebastian
Leveta Pierce
Kristen Olsen
David Maningding
Sean Torrens
William Royce
Brandy Hamilton
Andrew Stonefield
Priscilla Jones
Anthony LaRocca
Melissa McCloud
Suzanne Flynn
John Mann
Trista Welsh

Trenna Metts is the orientation director for summer 1993 and Kim Grant-Mitchell is the graduate assistant.

Campus smoking policy reviewed

A committee, appointed by the chancellor, to review institutional policies on smoking in the workplace have made the following recommendations regarding the campus smoking policy.

Members of the committee consists of representatives from a cross-section of the campus community: students, a professor, support staff, professional staff, smokers, nonsmokers, and reformed smokers.

1. The existing institutional policy on smoking is generally accepted as adequate in protecting nonsmokers from secondhand smoke, and in allowing opportunities for smokers to exercise their "right to smoke" even indoors within reason. No policy changes are recommended.

2. Enforcement of existing institutional policy is seen as nonexistent. Offenses are believed to be rare campus-wide, but substantially problematic in the Student Center dining room, the EMS Building, and in all restrooms.

3. Concerning smoking in private offices in a public agency, we believe that smokers have some responsibility in the safety and comfort of visitors (i.e. students and co-workers visiting faculty who smoke.) We recommend that all who smoke in "private" offices be urged to purchase and use air purifying devices.

4. There is a need for highly visible, nonremovable markings for smoking and no smoking areas of the Student Center main dining room and restrooms. The overflow area could provide better separation of smoking/nonsmoking areas, but would require improved lighting and ventilation. We recommend the placement of huge, red, semipermanent markings indicating both smoking and nonsmoking areas of the dining room.

5. Members of the Coastal family who smoke would benefit from an anti-smoking campaign.
